BOARD OF TRADE SECURES LEGAL ADVISER ON ROAD QUESTION

Will Continue Vigorous Campaign for Local Improvement

READY FOR DRASTIC ACTION

While little has been said publicly during the past week with reference to the improvement of the public road leading from Speers to Coal Centre, there has been considerable activity in local circles with reference to keeping up the campaign, with a view of attaining the ends the interested citizens of this section of the valley have in mind.

At a meeting of the committee of the Board of Trade held Thursday evening, it was decided to employ D. M. McCloskey, Esq., to look after the legal end of the campaign, and to act in an advisory capacity, as well as to prosecute any plan of action which may be determined upon with a view of securing the improvement of the river road.

The Board of Trade is determined to carry the fight to a successful finish. The meeting held in Turner hall on the night of the 13th simply increased their determination to continue the campaign, and to employ such methods as will bring results. Promises have been plenty in the past, but they will not pass at par in the future. The organization stands ready to lend its assistance in removing any obstructions which may be holding up this desired improvement, while at the same time they will not hesitate to resort to legal methods, whether it be by means of injunctions or mandamus proceedings in order to secure action. The road has been held up so long, and apparently jockeyed from its original leading position among the highways that were first on the list, that local supporters of the improvement are determined not to be put off with excuses or promises. What the Board of Trade wants, and what they have a right to expect, is the keeping of faith, a fulfillment of promises, and such action on the part of the county commissioners as will show they are ready to make good their word that they are in favor of the improvement of the highway. The committee in charge of the local campaign is keeping directly in touch with the situation, and will continually remind the county officials that the river road has not been forgotten by the citizens of this section of the valley regardless of what others may think of the project.

TO UNIONTOWN TRAINS ON MONONGAHELA RY.

Under a new schedule operative on the 23rd, the Monongahela Railway operating out of Brownsville to the south, will not run any more trains to Uniontown. These trains ran by way of Huron. Under the new arrangement the Monongahela will have four trains each way during the day to and from Fairmont.

FEW CHANGES ARE MADE IN SCHEDULE

Under the new passenger schedule effective on the Monongahela Division of the Pennsylvania railroad the first train south from Pittsburgh will reach the Charleroi station at 6:05 Eastern Standard time or 7:05 daylight conservation. The next train south, which runs through Uniontown, will arrive at 7:02 Eastern Standard or 8:02 daylight conservation. But few other changes are made in the schedule.

FIVE BIDDERS FOR FINLEYVILLE ROAD

Prospects for the resurfacing of the Finleyville-Library road during the coming summer appear to be very bright. Bids for this work were opened by the County Commissioners at Washington on Friday. There were five bidders, D. Collins Co., Donora Construction Co., McCready Brothers Co., Thomas Arrigo and George S. White Company.

As soon as the bids can be tabulated by the county engineer the contract will be awarded, but this will not be for several days yet. This road is now 12 feet wide, but it is to be resurfaced with concrete 18 feet wide. It will be necessary to tear up the old road before the new surface can be laid. The road is three and three-quarters miles long.

Commencement Activities Ushered In By Class Play

Commencement activities of the son, made an ideal storekeeper. Everett Hill, as "Rail Jackson, a chronicle school auditorium, last evening, when the members of the graduating class, under the direction of Miss Frances Maud Beck, presented the three-act comedy, "Hunkers' Corners" to an audience which completely filled the house. The play was very much enjoyed, the many amusing situations which from time to time developed proving a constant source of pleasure and amusement. Those who participated in the play are deserving of much praise for the efficient manner in which they portrayed the different characters. They all gave evidence of careful and efficient training. Noticeably proficient was Lester Beazell, as the colored assistant, while Bill Hunkers' store; while Bill himself, impersonated by Alvin Watson.

MINES NOT RUNNING TO FULL CAPACITY

It is very evident that a number of river mines in the upper Monongahela valley are not running to capacity, as a number of towing steamers have been compelled during the past few days to return to lower harbors either with a short tow or running light. This is an unusual condition and shows that a number of men must be laying idle each day for some cause not yet apparent.

"MICKEY" COMING TO THE COYLE

Mickey is returning to the Coyle for a two day engagement on Monday and Tuesday.
"Mickey" is an orphan and is raised by an old friend of her father's in a western mining town. The girl, full of mischief, becomes involved in innumerable escapades and she is the source of no end of merriment when transplanted to the fashionable home of her aunt in Long Island. Her love affair with Herbert Thornhill, a wealthy young man is a delightful feature of the story which pulsates with exciting adventures. In this rough diamond Thornhill sees a rare gem and in the end he wins her to the satisfaction of all. "Mickey" has had a hard row to travel but with "Mickey" orchestra who appear here Thornhill she eventually finds love, in Charleroi for the first time.

June 17 and 18 are Dates Selected for the Meetings

PROMINENT SPEAKERS COMING

Celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Washington County Sabbath School Association will feature at the annual convention to be held in Charleroi on June 17 and 18. This event promises to be the best in the history of the association. It is expected that each of the 250 Sunday schools of the county will be represented by at least five delegates, and as many schools have already chosen their representatives, it is anticipated the convention will be one of the largest ever held by the association.

The convention program will present several new and very interesting features. Irvin H. Mack, of Philadelphia, will have charge of the music, assisted by Bentley D. Aykley, who was at one time the pianist for Billy Sunday's evangelistic party. This insures music of the most inspiring character.

Others who are expected to appear at the convention are John C. Silsley of Greensburg and E. K. Stockbrand of Philadelphia, representing the state association; E. W. Thorn of Newark, O.; Rev. Paul H. Dondore, of Latrobe; Erret H. Quick, Turtle Creek; Mable Guttery, Washington; Mrs. John H. Bailey, and Mrs. C. T. Martin, of the Allegheny County School of Religious Education; John A. Vickerman, a member of the state legislature; Rev. Homer C. Renton of Pittsburgh and others. It is planned to have actual demonstrations of work in several different departments. Each of the four divisions will have at least three conferences to which only those belonging to that division will be admitted. Upon their arrival here the delegates will be assigned to one of these department groups and will be expected to attend the sessions of that group throughout the convention.

KUNKEL LEADS SADLER IN THE COUNTY VOTE

Complete unofficial returns from Tuesday's primaries shows that Judge Kunkel leads Judge Sadler by 30 votes the totals being, Kunkel 3,779, Sadler 3,749. Col. Crago led the candidates for Congress-at-large while Senator Knox was high man for national delegate-at-large, with Atterbury second, Mellen third, Chandler fourth and Elverson fifth.

PARTISANSHIP HIS AIM.

President Wilson's letter to the Democratic Chairman of Oregon insisting upon making the League of Nations an issue in the campaign does not make the League any more a party issue than it has been for more than a year. When the President came back from France just prior to the adjournment of Congress in 1919, he brought with him the outlines of a League of Nations' Covenant which he indicated by his public addresses he expected the Senate to adopt without alteration. As members of a coordinate branch of the Government charged with the duty of advising and consenting to the making of treaties, thirty-nine Republican Senators deliberately singled a round robin notifying the President, in very respectful terms, that their judgment was against the incorporation of a League of Nations' Covenant in the Peace Treaty and urging that the League scheme be eliminated, and the League question taken up subsequently.

Those who know the President and were familiar with his record of stubbornness in the pursuit of his undertakings, knew that there would be no compromise on his part. Although Republican Senators urged that the League Covenant be eliminated from the treaty and be taken up as a separate question, they finally agreed to compromise by permitting the League to remain in the treaty but with certain reservations which would preserve the political independence of the United States. It was manifest that these men, some of them opposed to the League entirely and others opposed to it unless the reservations were adopted, would not make further concessions, for to do so would be to abandon American nationalism to the internationalist movement. With the issues thus drawn between President Wilson, the absolute dictator of his party, on one hand, and thirty-nine Republican Senators on the other, it was inevitable that the League of Nations would be more or less of an issue in the next political campaign.

All the indications are that President Wilson desired such an outcome, probably as a wand still may be his ambition to be elected to a third term in the presidency. His first election was secured on the promise to reduce the cost of living; his second upon the slogan of "He kept us out of war," and the only apparent issue on which he could hope to win a third election was the League of Nations Covenant, and he is pursuing this as a last hope. If it should become apparent to him that he can not win upon this issue, undoubtedly he will announce his decision not to be a candidate.

Although deploring the fact that foreign questions have been injected into national politics, Republicans can not and would not evade an issue thus presented. They will go into the campaign upon their record as defenders of American independence from such schemes as the British-Wilson League of Nations which would involve this nation in all the conflicts of Europe and bind this country to supply its men, money and resources to defend the territorial integrity and political independence of all the other nations of the earth.

A SELF-MADE AUTHOR

At the funeral of William Dean Howells in the Church of the Ascension, New York, the officiating minister said: "He was brought up on the philosophy of Swedenborg, and in spite of the realism he was noted for he had some of the spirit of this mystic." However that may be, it is in his most readable work, "The Wizard of the Loaves," that his theory that the commonest of uneventful everyday life are the proper and only fit subjects for fiction. A romantic writer, Howells pointedly reminded him that the "wizard" is as real as the "loaf," and whether he was impressed by this view of the matter or not, he modified his own professed ideal, giving place to a certain idealism in his "realistic" fiction. With many readers of today, however, after rendering inevitable tribute to Mr. Howells' wholly admirable literary style, there is left the impression that too often in his stories the great things of life are subordinated to its trivialities.

The career of this author is of great interest and a source of inspiration to the struggling young journalist. For he was not college bred, was largely self-educated, and he climbed to steeple from the lowly beginning of a printer's boy at twelve and a reporter's drudgery on an Ohio paper a few years later. He was fortunate in happening to please President Lincoln and in receiving appointment as consul at Venice, a vital experience which permitted continuous literary work. A greater piece of good luck was his freedom to write his own novels in the Atlantic Monthly and thus introduce them to the public. After he was called to that month's editorial chair. But it was his originality, his ability to create a "new school" of fiction, that brought him his great success.

CAR SHORTAGE AND H. C. L.

It is charged by representatives of Middle Western States who have appeared before the Interstate Commerce Commission, that car shortage is largely responsible for the high cost of living. They state that in Minneapolis elevators there are 17,000,000 bushels of wheat sold many months ago, and 35,000,000 in country elevators throughout Minnesota, with almost as much more in the hands of the farmer, that cannot be moved for lack of transportation. In Kansas it is said that $146,000,000 worth of grain is held up. The utter neglect of the Federal administration during its two years of railroad control, to continue car construction is directly responsible for the present lack of cars and the added cost of living attributable thereto. In spite of the fact that the drain on the railroads was tremendously increased in that period, car construction fell off to about half that of normal times. Until the roads have had time to restore their equipment the people will continue to pay the price of government mismanagement.

One of our associates in the world war comes out of it with two million square miles of additional territory. We have been offered a mandate in Armenia, or a fragment of it, and a protectorate over the island of Yap. The division is perfectly fair, we furnish the altruism and the other fellows get the territory and indemnities and the right to call us "selfish," and to have that charge echoed by all the mindless thinkers and demagogued patriots in the U. S. A.

It seems strange that some of the good people who are so anxious to merge this republic with every other nation on earth in a world government find so many obstacles to the fusion of all the world's religious bodies, or even the branches of the Christian religion, or even the divisions of the single denomination into one "broad" organization which would stand for everything and nothing.

The Prohibition Commission at Washington reports the discovery of 447 illicit stills in Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee. With such a record for only three states, it looks as if the output of poor and expensive liquor for the whole country is going to be of considerable proportions.

A MATTER OF GEOGRAPHY?

Attorney General Palmer approved the first big increase in the price of sugar—that exacted by the Louisiana cane growers, but when the Utah beet sugar people announced a raise he wired instructions for Federal proceedings against them.

Senator Robert Owen says the woman's vote will help the Democrats, because they stand for 'human rights.' If the Oklahoma Democrats stand for human rights you need only read the election laws they hung on their state to know that they don't believe Republicans are human.

Lincoln Steffens not long ago was pointing to the new Mexican constitution as the last word in political progress. The trouble with men of the Steffens stamp is that they do not understand that it takes something more than a mess of words to make a good government.

The literacy test which was vetoed by three Presidents, now sends back an Armenian girl who escaped from a Turkish harem and came to this country to marry a native of her desolated country who is now a wealthy citizen of Philadelphia.

England is said to have 1,900 profane tribunals but so far only 24 convictions. In this country we have done a little better, 1200 arrests, 350 indictments and some thirty commitments to jail having been recently reported.

London's Primitive Water Pipes.

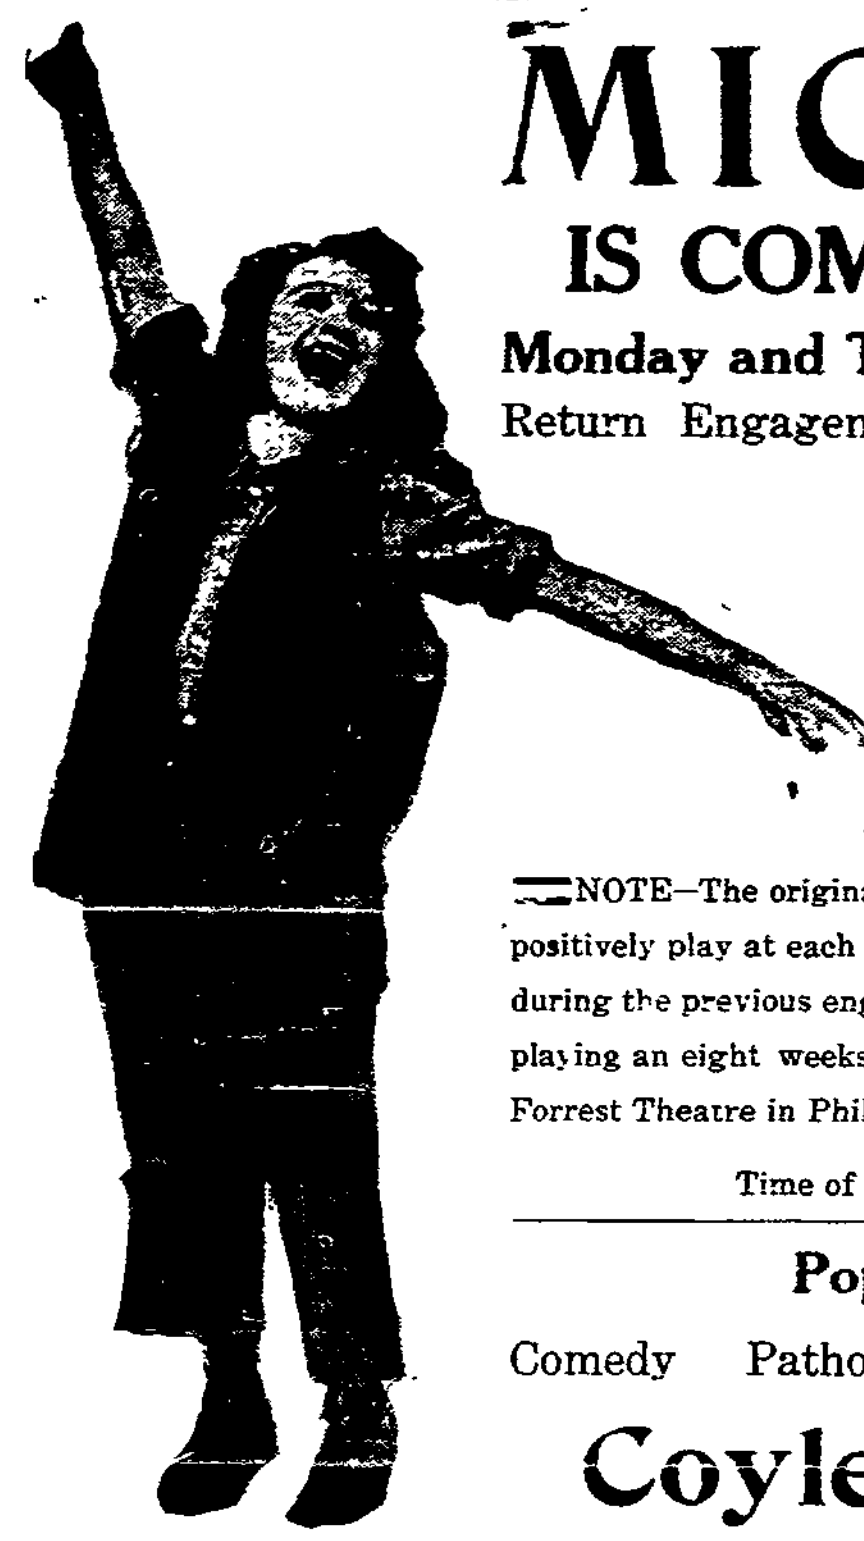

London's water supply formerly came through wooden pipes. These were of the simplest construction, formed of the stems of small elm trees, drilled through the center and cut in lengths of about six feet, one end being tapered so as to fit into the adjoining pipe. The wooden pipes, of which at one time more than 400 miles were in use, leaked considerably, decayed rapidly, burst during frosts and were always troublesome. It was not until 1830 that they began to be superseded by cast iron, and a quarter of a century later some of the old wooden pipes were still in use.

When the Mind is Ripened.

No man can learn what he has not preparation for learning, however near to his eyes is the subject. A chemist may tell his most precious secrets to a carpenter, and he shall be never the wiser—the secrets he would not utter to a chemist for an estate. Our eyes are holden that we cannot see things that stare us in the face until the hour arrives when the mind is ripened; then we behold them and the time when we saw them not is like a dream.—Emerson.

Although there is a great shortage of paper it is unlikely that many of us have carried economy to the extent indicated in a letter received by a school teacher the other day. The Roman Fare.

The Roman soldiers, who built such wonderful roads and carried a weight of armor and baggage, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular and constant in exercise. The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats only black bread, onion and water lemon.

Famous English Chimneys.

A "twisted chimney" distinguished an Elizabethan manor house in the ancient town of Buckingham, England, which is to be offered for sale shortly, and the auctioneers assert that the secret of this mode of construction is lost, and that the only other "twisted chimney" and that less perfect, is at Hampton Court.

The banana is a perennial herbaceous plant, growing from year to year from an underground root stock with a stem or stalk from 10 to 15 feet high above the ground. The plant has drooping leaves, but no branches like fruit trees of the north countries. Each stalk produces one large cluster of fruit. After fruiting, the stalk is cut down to the surface of the ground and grows up again from the root.

The beech, which is found in the temperate zone in Europe, America and Asia, is valuable in medicine for the creosote distilled from its tar. The Horse in Scripture.

Sacred story has not forgotten the horse. In the pages of the Scriptures alone the horse occupies a goodly place.

ANOTHER STEAMER SOLD TO SOUTHERN COMPANY

It was reported in Pittsburg on Friday that the steamer Beacon of the Pittsburg Coal company line, had been sold to an oil concern in Tampico, Mexico, and would leave in a few days for Lake Charles, La., where it would be placed on a barge for transportation. Other Pittsburg built boats are at work towing oil at Tampico, all of which were taken down there within recent years.

P.G. CARGO OF GAS FOR MONONGAHELA

The steamer Old Reliable with a gasoline barge in tow, arrived at Monongahela Friday evening, where it discharged the greater part of the cargo to the tanks of the Atlantic Refining company. The Old Reliable tows gasoline from Sistersville to Pittsburg and yesterday made its first trip up the Monongahela with a cargo of gas. The railroad conditions made it imperative that supplies be received in some other manner than by railroad freight.

Life Not Merely Lapse of Years.

The mere lapse of years is not life. To eat and drink and sleep; to be exposed to the darkness and the light; to pass round in the mill of habit; and turn the wheel of wealth; to make reason our bookkeeper and turn thought into an implement of trade—this is not life. In all this, but a poor fraction of the consciousness of humanity is awakened; and the sanctities still slumber which make it most worth while to be.—James Martineau.

Long before tobacco was known or smoked, sweet lavender was a favorite smoking mixture. Pipes have been dug up in Roman settlements, adorned with base-reliefs picturing the lavender plant. From which it is surmised that the Romans smoked lavender, which, according to writers of the time, is said to produce a feeling "active, ardent and vigorous."

Pointing, as she thought, to the prettier one!

Ink stains on white fabrics can be removed with peroxide of hydrogen. Drop it on the stain with a medicine dropper or, if it is a large spot, pour it on slowly from a spoon. As this preparation has a bleaching effect, great care must be exercised if used on colored materials.

Fear in the Child.

"There is a world of truth in Prof. Angelo Mosso's emphatic declaration: 'Every ugly thing told to the child, every shock, every fright given him, will remain like minute splinters in the flesh, to torture him all his life long.'"
"Psychology and Parenthood," by H. Addington Bruce.

One evening, coming home from the theater on the street car with my lady friend, I stepped from the car and noticed an automobile coming up behind the car. I kept my eye on the automobile and took the elbow of the best person alighting after me, expecting it to be my friend. Still watching the motor, I led the elbow safely to the walk and then turned my attention to her. But, to my embarrassment, who should I find myself escorted, but a great tall man, who said in the sweetest voice: "Thank you, I was never escorted by a young man across the street before; you are the kindest fellow I ever met." My lady friend was following us, and she giggled over the joke all the rest of the way home.—Exchange.

Artificial Tree for Birds

Dr. H. B. Warren is having a concrete tree built on his lawn at West Chester, Pa., to provide homes for birds. The tree is upon a wire frame 15 feet high. Holes of different sizes will lure the birds to meet and rest. At the base of the tree will be a large concrete bath to provide the guests with running water at all times. Installation limbs on the "tree" will give perching accommodations. But the question is, will the birds be fooled by this elaborately counterfeited tree? We have seen some most elaborate and expensive bird houses empty year after year.

Two Fatalities.

The freight train caused the explosion by hitting a truck loaded with acetylene tanks. The truck and driver was killed.—Buffalo News.

A. J. Schaaf, general manager of the Elizabeth Marine Ways, and one of the leading boat builders on western waters, has resigned from that position to go with the Pittsburg Steel company at their boat building plant and marine ways at the Allouez mines, near Brownsville. Mr. Schaaf will assume his new duties during the early part of June.

Dr. B. D. Hetrick, Harvey Wolfbrandt and H. E. Price, accompanied by Norman E. Steltz of Pittsburg left at noon today for a trout fishing trip to Elk county. They drove to Dubois this afternoon, expecting to reach their destination sometime tomorrow forenoon. They carried a complete camping outfit and expect to be gone for one week.

BURMESE FOND OF ANIMALS

Characteristic That Might Well Be Copied by Other Nations More Highly Civilized.

The Burmese people naturally are full of the greatest sympathy toward animals of all kinds, understand their ways, and make them feel they are their friends. And we know that if a person is kind to animals he is generally kind to his fellowman.

A Burmese boy would never be allowed to go bird-nesting, or rattling with a terrier, or ferreting rabbits. These would be crimes.

A Burman hates to kill. Neither for sport, nor for revenge, nor for food, must any animal be deprived of the breath that is in it.

All the animals—the ponies, the cattle and the working buffaloes are so tame that it is an almost unknown thing for anyone to get hurt. You can walk through the herds of an evening in perfect safety, for they will not attempt to touch you.

Many of our growing boys think it a grand thing to be indifferent to pain—not only their own but to that of all others. To be sorry for a wounded dog or a hunted hare seems "girly" to them. But to the Burman kindness to animals is the highest of all virtues. He believes that nothing of great value can exist without compassion and love and sympathy—that these make up all that is most beautiful in life.

I think we can take a lesson from the Burmese in their dealings with dumb animals.—The Young Soldier.

HELPED TO WIN GREAT WAR

Many Thousands of Chinese Laborers Took Useful Part in the Recent Conflict.

A little known but interesting sidelight on the World war is the fact that China was represented in the great conflict by 150,000 laborers, of whom 100,000 worked with the English forces, and 50,000 with the French.

They were recruited in China from the low or coolie-labor classes in units of 500 men. During the early days of the war and up to the middle of 1917 they were sent in transports down through the Indian ocean, up the Red sea and over the Mediterranean sea past Gibraltar to France. But submarines in the Mediterranean made travel too perilous and the route was changed. The balance of the 300 units of 500 men each were then sent over the Pacific to Vancouver, B. C., where the Canadian Pacific would transfer across our continent to Halifax, Nova Scotia, and thence across the Atlantic to France.

Each man's queue had been cut off and an identification disk, or "bracelet" in army vernacular, placed around his wrist. He was given 60 cents a day, two-thirds of which was set aside for his family or dependents in China—more money than he ever knew about before in a month—and this proved to be a magnet which drew thousands upon thousands of coolies to the recruiting station at Tientsin.

Barge, 63 Years Old, Sinks.

On old double-deck barge called the Harvest Queen, built in 1857, sank slowly upon the mud alongside the barge office through failure of her pumps to keep out the flood until repairs could be made in her leaking sides. She was towed here from Norfolk by the coast guard cutter Manhattan and was to be used as a temporary houseboat for the men of the coast guard service, who were compelled to give up their quarters in the municipal ferry terminal at South Ferry. Although the barge had a reputation for being an unusually leaky craft in her old days, an investigation will be made to ascertain if she was helped to the bottom by persons who had no wish to be housed aboard of her.—New York Tribune.

Just Like Peacock.

Although the American redstart is a little bird only five and a half inches long, it has one trait in common with the gorgeously plumed peacock, namely, that it seems to be very fond of its handsome plumage and is continually spreading its tail feathers, says the American Forestry association. Washington. The male redstart, whose colors are red, orange and white, does not attain the black portion of its plumage on back, tail and wings until it is two years old. This part of the bird during its early life being strangely mottled. The female is grayish, yellow and white.

The words, lazaretto and lazarus, meaning a hospital or place for the reception of persons suffering from contagious diseases, and especially the leprosy, are derived from the Italian word of like meaning, lazzeretto. All are derived from Lazarus, the name of the poor-leper in the parable to be found in the Gospel of St. Luke, chapter sixteen. This is the only case in the New Testament where a proper name occurs in a parable. The words derived from that proper name show the influence this parable has had on the mind of Christendom.

Money in Raising Alligators.

There is much money to be made in alligator farming. The demand for alligators is large, constant and rapidly increasing; the supply is limited, and there is not much competition. The few alligators have to be fed on meat, but they need no food from September 1 to May 1, for this is their hibernating season, when they do not eat at all.

Crudoleum

For Polishing High Class Furniture

You simply must try CRUDOLEUM for polishing furniture. Its touch leaves that rich soft glow that makers of high-class home fixtures take such pains to attain. Step into the finishing room of the piano factory, if you please; if you watch closely you will usually discern the bottle which contains the same old-time polish, "Petroleum," that brightened the homes of many years ago. It has marked the passing of many other polishes. CRUDOLEUM is the higher, cleaner, purer grade of that time-tested, undaunted petroleum.

Nature in its marvelous laboratory, has compounded CRUDOLEUM with exactness, filtered and re-filtered it until clean and clear, then stored it in the chambers of the rocks, from which place man's ingenuity sent it gushing cool and sweet, rich and light in color, bubbling and sparkling into the sunlight, a perfected and finished natural product. Although its beautiful color was admired by many who visited the well, it was the president of the Simpson Drug Co. who saw in it, on account of its exceptional purity, great possibilities as a superior product for drug and chemical uses. Mr. F. J. Johns who is the agent in Charleroi, sell a large bottle for 35c, and is authorized to return your money to you if you are not pleased with CRUDOLEUM. If your druggist does not keep it, send 40c to Wm. M. Simpson Drug Co. Wholesale Druggists, Wilkensburg Station, Pittsburgh, Pa., and you will receive a half pint bottle by return mail.

All persons who have goods of any kind or wearing apparel at R. O. Vetter's, for leaning or dyeing, will please call and redeem the same within 30 days. A change in business makes it imperative that all such goods be called for within the time noted above.

'JITNEY' NOW WITHOUT HONOR

Humble Nickel Can Hardly Be Claimed as Real Money in These Spend-thrift Days.

Once upon a time a nickel was real money—but those days are gone. In the days of our youth, watermelons could be purchased for the sum of five cents, but now not even the transparent slice can be obtained for this sum.

Enough bananas could be bought for five cents to give three boys indigestion, but that was long ago.

There was a time when small boys were wont to do chores around the home for the coveted nickel—but not now.

Who can forget the man who used to walk into the cigar store and say, in a loud voice, "Give me a good nickel cigar."

There was a time when a nickel bought a loaf of bread, or a dish of ice cream, paid for a shoe shine and even made a sizeable tip. Some of the old citizens, in their more reminiscent moods, can recall those days—or at least they say they can.

But gradually, one by one, the uses of the "jitney" passed away. It would buy nothing to eat, nothing to drink, unless reinforced by the once despised penny, until only a ride on a street car remained to be secured in exchange for the nickel.

And then the street railway company followed in the wake of a long and illustrious procession of profiteers.

CHILD GIVEN UNIQUE NAME

American Girl to Go Through Life With YWCA as One of Her Appellations.

"We've named her Y. W. C. A.," said a proud young mother as she displayed her two-months-old baby to a group of girls at one of the many Y. W. C. A. branches in New York city recently. So "Alice YWCA Stamboulides" is a real child, the possessor of a unique name which will always be a reminder of her mother's first days in a strange country. When Mrs. Lulu Stamboulides, a pretty Roumanian girl, first came to the United States nearly two years ago her young Greek husband, whom she had come here to marry, took her immediately to the Harlem branch of the Y. W. C. A. in New York city to learn the American language, customs, and ideals. He himself had found this training at the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. Stamboulides entered English, art, cooking and sewing classes and soon became one of the most popular members of the branch. Then when little Alice arrived the father insisted that her middle name should be "Y. W. C. A."—and so it is—and Alice Stamboulides can hold her own with Mary Armistice Smiths and John Pershing Joneses of the day.

Cherish Enthusiasm.

To keep to the forefront you must not lose your enthusiasm. Charge your boy dreams with man experience and watch the world gasp at your progress. When the visions of youth set the skill of maturity to definite tasks, there's bound to be kingly achievement that will last. The sober old world will scold and scoff, but it can never harness the spur of youth. Dreams bred of surging desire and chaffing enthusiasm are bound to find fulfillment whatever the cost. And best of all the fulfillment means blessing to the world. We all profit by every new gift to the world. Gifts are the product of dreams and visions. It's the spirit born of youth that provides for the world's progress. Keep young by dreaming and doing to the extent of your power. It's a spur to power.

Dodo's Big Mistake.

The dodo—its name today a synonym for "back number"—became extinct owing to the circumstance that it was good to eat. Not being able to fly, its clumsy waddle gave it no means of escape. Sailors stopping at the island of Mauritius, to which it was native, killed it for food. Not even a skeleton of the dodo now exists, and until recently it was supposed there was only one picture of the bird—made by an artist who visited Mauritius in 1626. But it now appears that living specimens were taken to Amsterdam, at about the same period, and beautiful painted portraits of them have turned up. One of the latter is of a white dodo (not an albino), which presumably represented a distinct variety, the ordinary type having plumage that was mostly gray.—Detroit Journal.

A reinforced concrete wireless mast of large dimensions has been erected upon the Chinese wall for the use of the American navy. It is 164 feet in height. The original program called for the making of the mast by the precast method in two parts, and then erecting them by means of derricks, but an accident occurred while the erection was taking place and an American engineer and four coolies were killed. The method of forming in molds was then tried, and although it was much more expensive than the other, it was successfully carried out.

Soft for the Cook.

Dr. Edal Behram of Bombay, India, comes to the fore advocating a permanent menu of shredded cabbage, pink and white; beets, carrots, whole wheat and fruits, nuts and raisins, all to be eaten raw. Applications for permanent K. P. in the Indian army now in order. Line forms on the right—Home Sector.

Earth's Life Zones.

Biologists have divided the entire surface of the earth into life zones, each zone having much the same flora and fauna; wherever found. The life zone in a given locality depends upon both latitude and elevation. Thus, the Canadian life zone, which has everywhere plants and animals similar to those of Canada, is found in the high Rocky mountains as far south as southern Colorado and northern New Mexico.

Shellac is the Joint Product of Insects and Plants and Comes from India.

The lac insects are about 1.25 of an inch long, a bright red in color. They suck the juices of plants, digest them and exude them in the form of resin, which soon encases the whole insect. When the young insects have swarmed out, the resin is scraped from the branches, ground, washed, mixed with colophony and orpiment, cooked slowly and drawn out into the thin sheets we know as shellac.

Miner's Inch.

A miner's inch is a unit of measurement of water used in irrigation, and varies considerably in different states. In Arizona the miner's inch is equal to one-fortieth of a cubic foot per second.
